The consent to the adoption given by the biological parents or the child welfare institution a consent to a full adoption or only to a simple adoption as it's known in Thailand?

The consent for adoption given by the biological parents or the child welfare institution is considered to a full adoption Those who give the consent have been counselled and duly informed of the effects of such consent that will result in the termination of the Legal relationship between the child and the biological parents. And such consent is given in line with Article 4 (c) of the Hague Convention framework.

Thank you for the kind and continued cooperation.

Yours Sincerely,

(Mrs. Prapimdao Satake)
